The simple present tense is used to talk about our routines and habits. Read the following interview using the simple present tense

Peter: Hello, can I ask you some questions?

Alex: Yes, you can ask as many questions as you want.

Peter: Thank you for taking the time. Now, the first question: What do you do?

Alex: I’m a graphics designer. I design magazines, brochures and websites.

Peter: How long have you been doing this?

Alex: I’ve been working as a graphics designer for over six years.

Peter: Are you married?

Alex: Yes, I'm.

Peter: What does your wife do?

Alex: She’s a teacher.

Peter: Where does she teach?

Alex: She teaches at a public school in Chennai.

Peter: Do you have any children?

Alex: Yes, we’ve two children – a boy and a girl.

Peter: Do you watch films?

Alex: Occasionally. I’m not really into films. I’d rather read a book.

Peter: What type of books do you read?

Alex: I really like detective novels.

Peter: Who is your favorite writer?

Alex: Agatha Christie.

Peter: Do you exercise?
Alex: Yes, I’m very health-conscious.

Peter: How often do you exercise?

Alex: I exercise at least four times a week. I’ve a private gym so my wife and I can work out whenever we want to.

Peter: Do you like to go on a holiday?

Alex: Of course, I do, but we rarely go on holiday. I have a crazy working schedule that prevents me from taking holidays.

Peter: Thank you so much for answering my questions.

Alex: You’re welcome!
