Complete the following sentences using have or have got. In some cases either could be used.

1. She ...................... a car.
   a) has b) has got c) either could be used here

2. I ...................... a headache.
   a) have b) have got c) either could be used here

   a) has b) has got c) either could be used here

4. I ...................... flu last week.
   a) had b) had got c) either could be used here

5. I ...................... your keys.
   a) haven’t got b) haven’t c) either could be used here

6. I often ........................ meetings.
   a) have b) have got c) either could be used here

7. Sorry, I ........................ any beer.
   a) haven’t b) haven’t got c) either could be used here

8. Have you got a pen? ‘No, I ......................
   a) haven’t b) haven’t got c) either could be used here

Answers

1. She has got a car. (She has a car is also possible, but less common.)

2. I have got a headache.

3. Jane has got a new boyfriend.

4. I had flu last week. (Got-forms of have are not used in the past tense.)
5. I haven’t got your keys.

6. I often have meetings. (Got-forms of have are not normally used to talk about repeated states.)

7. Sorry, I haven’t got any beer.

8. Have you got a pen? No, I haven’t. (Got-forms of have are not used in short answers or tags.)